THE HORTICULTURAL EXHIBITION .- We mentioned a few days since the classes of articles which would be received and displayed at the approaching exhibition. We learn that many, especially among the labut are deterred by the impression that tached to each article exhibited, which might not always be agreeable in case that others superior to theirs were displayed. For the benefit of persons entertaining this objection, we state that, whenever an artithe article taking a premium. Others who have fine fruits, vegetables, and other articles which are really worthy of exhibition, think that it is scarcely worth while to send them, because there may probably be something of the same sort larger or handsomer sent by some one else, and that it is of no use to send anything of second quality. This is a mistaken view of the matter. The object of the exhibition is not merely to have the very best specimen of each article, but to have many good specimens of each, so as to show what is the condition of the State in these classes of production, and the numerous fine varieties of each article which exist, or can be made. An Easter Beuvré pear is twice as large as a Bartlett and five or six times as large as a Sickel, but the Bartlett excels the Easter in quality ing the windows of Ross Campbell and and both in beauty, while the small, plainusing abusive language toward him. Mrs. looking Sickel is more delicious to the taste than either; and this is the case with sorts of vegetables. The same principle premium list, and among judges the highest excellence is not always awarded to that which is most showy.

We therefore suggest to our readers that all send whatever they have that is attrac-Anna Carter and Jane Cyplurs, negro tive or good, and make a full exhibit of girls, were arraigned to answer a charge what the good old State can still do.
